Fort Leavenworth

Dr. Adam Lowther serves as the Director of the Department of Multi-Domain Operations at the Army Management Staff College. Dr. Lowther was Professor of Political Science at the US Army's School of Advanced Military Studies (SAMS) where he taught Twenty-first Century Conflict to senior service college students in the Advanced Strategic Leadership Studies Program. He is an expert in nuclear deterrence, multi-domain operations, and the nuclear programs of Russia and China.

Previously, he served as the founding Director of the School of Advanced Nuclear Deterrence Studies (SANDS), Kirtland AFB. He led the school's academic, professional development, and research effort.

Dr. Lowther also served as the Director of the Center for Academic and Professional Journals at the Air Force Research Institute (AFRI), Maxwell AFB, where he oversaw publication of the Air Force's professional journals: Strategic Studies Quarterly and Air and Space Power Journal (English, Spanish, Chinese, French).

Prior to assuming this position, Dr. Lowther was a research professor at AFRI where he led and participated in a number of CSAF directed studies. Dr. Lowther is widely published and has written in the New York Times, Boston Globe, Joint Force Quarterly, Strategic Studies Quarterly, and a variety of other journals and outlets.

Early in his career, Dr. Lowther served in the US Navy aboard the USS RAMAGE (DDG-61). He also served at CINCUSNAVEUR–London and with NMCB 17.
